

MOOCs in Scandinavia conference

Posters

Teachers at different universities learning together and about open networked learning in an open online course

Lars Uhlin¹, Maria Kvarnström¹, Ebba Ossiannilsson², Lotta Åbjörnsson², Alastair Creelman³ and Maria Hedberg²

¹ Karolinska Institutet, ²Lund University and ³Linnaeus University, Sweden

Learning to Learn Online: a MOOC with a difference for novice online learners

Dr. M. Cleveland-Innes

Athabasca University, KTH Royal institute of Technology

MOOC instructional design principles: ensuring quality across scale and diversity

Cleveland-Innes, M., Briton, D., Gismondi, M., & Ives, C.

Athabasca University, KTH Royal institute of Technology

MOOC for didactics in mathematics – an overview of a complex modelling process

Eirik Øvernes

Norwegian Centre of ICT in Education

Massive Open Online Collaboration – what does it bring to Education?

Sara Mörtzell

Wikimedia Sverige

Towards Open Networked Learning: An Ethnographic Investigation of Learning Ecology in Connectivist MOOCs

Mohsen Saadatmand

University of Helsinki

Reasons for engaging in MOOC development: management, faculty and support perspectives

Christian Stöhr, Thommy Eriksson and Tom Adawi

Chalmers University of Technology

Experiences and reflections from running connectivist MOOCs in Sweden

Jörg Pareigis, Nina Löfberg

Karlstad University

A sustainable alternative for xMOOCs in Sweden – an innovative integration of the universities' third mission

Jörg Pareigis, Markus Schneider
Karlstad University

SimTek - an edX-based platform for mathematical multi-physics simulation

S. Banzas (1), C. Alonso-Montes (2), J. Jansson (2,*)
(1) Fac. Informatics Universidade da Coruña (SPAIN) (2) BCAM - Basque Center for Applied Mathematics (SPAIN) (*), info@udc.es, {calonso,jjansson}@bcamath.org

Learning to learn in MOOCS

Sandra Milligan
University of Melbourne, Australia